THE ANNOUNCEMENTS

Today we remember the brave men and women who have served in the Armed Forces of our country and gave all that they had to give.

Bible Study takes place on Thursday at 10:00 AM in the Rector's office. The current topic is "Women in the Bible". "Women in the Bible" sheds new light on familiar characters like Mary Magdalene in the New Testament and Sarah, Abraham's wife in the Hebrew Bible. It also studies characters who are less well known to many Bible readers, such as the city of Babylon, styled as a whore in the Book of Revelation. Through the stories of these women, discover how gender can inform your reading as you explore how these stories relate to your own faith journey.

- Gluten Free Communion Wafers are now available during each service. If you require one, please ask Fr. Chris at the communion rail.

- If you are a new parishioner, we would most appreciate your filling out our Parish Survey. There are blanks at the back of the church for your convenience. Completed forms can be returned to the church office. Thank you.

- Altar Flowers: If you would like to dedicate Altar flowers for the Altar contact Laura Bott at 631-722-4749 or email her at laura.bott17@gmail.com. In May there is one vase available for the 7th and 14th. Each vase is $40. Kindly Note: checks should be made out to St. Mark's Church with "Flowers" in the memo section.

- Ways to Help the People of Ukraine...When the donated non-perishable items were delivered to the Ukrainian Church in Riverhead we were told that what they need right now are bandages, pain killers, burn care products and NEW summer clothing. A complete list is posted on the bulletin board next to the church office. Please help us collect as much of these necessary items as we can. There is a box for them in the narthex. You can also visit our website at www.stmarkswhb.org for ways to help.
- Maureen's Haven: "Thank you" for donations to Maureen's Haven. A box for donations, along with a list of suggested items such as individual containers of non-perishable food, is in the office lobby.

About This Study...

Reading about the women in the Bible reveals a great deal more than simply the stories of a few individuals. Through the women's trials and triumphs, the text offers various (sometimes contradictory) pictures of gender, family life, and relationships. Our modern understanding of gender may not translate directly onto the functions of gender in the Bible.

What are our pre-conceptions about gender in the time of the Hebrew Bible and in the Greco-Roman world? We may imagine that ancient women were universally oppressed or powerless, relegated to their roles as wives and mothers. This unit challenges these pre-conceived ideas as it seeks to understand the many roles women hold in biblical stories. We will read the stories with special attention to the power dynamics, including those surrounding gender, enslavement, and empire.

It is important to remember that these women's stories do not necessarily reveal what was normal or even ideal about gender in the ancient Near East or the Greco-Roman world. Instead, they show us glimpses of those worlds from which the authors of the texts made meaning.

"Women in the Bible" sheds new light on familiar characters like Mary Magdalene in the New Testament and Sarah, Abraham's wife in the Hebrew Bible. It also studies characters who are less well known to many Bible readers, such as the city of Babylon, styled as a whore in the Book of Revelation. Through the stories of these women, discover how gender can inform your reading as you explore how these stories relate to your own faith journey.

Sunflowers for Ukraine

Our Peer Mentoring Art class takes place in a unique classroom enviroment at Shoreham-Wading River High School.
Our RISE students who have Autism work alongside our peer mentors to produce art that we can all be proud of!

This year we were awarded a SEPTA special education grant to purchase all of the materials related to this project and our students wanted to make an impact on the crisis in Ukraine.

We are auctioning off these beautiful sunflower paintings to raise money for the children and students of the Ukraine.

Thank you for any donation you would like to make to our cause or for bidding on one of our paintings!

BULLETIN INSERTS

Explore the Way of Love: TURN

There are so many voices in the world, telling us who we are, what we should do, and how we will be fulfilled. They tell us to focus on our desires, on our cravings, on being the best individual we can be. The world, we are told, revolves around each of us.

THE WAY OF LOVE
Practices for Jesus-Centered Life

For many, these pursuits of self-fulfillment can leave us feeling drained, empty, and alone. They can lead us away from our divine calling. Away from the creator in whose image we were made. But if we listen closely, there is a spirit calling us to come back to ourselves, back to our purpose, back to something more meaningful.

When we look to the example of Jesus, we see the way that he followed. This is the Way of Love.

One aspect of this Way and making it a practice in our own lives is remembering to simply to turn toward the voice that calls us. Intentionally choosing our direction, choosing to turn and face the light, is the fundamental shift that puts the Way of Love into action. As Jesus tells us in the Book of John: "Whoever serves me must follow me, and where I am, there will my servant be also."

Turning doesn't have to change who you are—you are loved as you were created. But it can change where you are going. It can shift you from selfishness to loving the other. It can shift you from hoarding to generosity. It can lead you from sin and distance from God into closer alignment with the One who made and loves you so much.

Obeying this call means recognizing the things we put first in our lives, the things we allow to have the most space in our minds, our fears and hopes and desires. And turning instead toward love.

It can be as freeing as the early followers putting down their fishing nets. It can be as missional as Jesus asking us to pick up our cross and follow him. It can be as simple as paying attention to which direction our feet are facing on our journey.

Turning is not just a one time event, but an ongoing discipline, re-directing our steps as often as we think to, always turning toward the light. And turning toward the light can also illuminate how many there are on the journey with you, emerging from the shadows to walk the same path.

The Way of Love can lead you to discover a community of fellow travelers with whom you share the journey. The Way of Love shows us who we are, it lights the path to where we should go, and it gives purpose to our desires for fulfillment. And it shows us that we are not alone. That like us, there are many who choosing to turn toward the Way of Love. Are you ready to commit to turning and following Jesus?

Learn more about the Way of Love at episcopalchurch.org/wayoflove. You can find suggestions on getting started and going deeper with Turning at iam.ec/ewol.

BIBLE STUDIES THAT WORK

Pentecost (A)
May 28, 2023

[RCL] Acts 2:1-21 or Numbers 11:24-30; Psalm 104:25-35, 37; 1 Corinthians 12:3b-13 or Acts 2:1-21; John 20:19-23 or John 7:37-39

Numbers 11:24-30

It is an unsettling thought for Joshua to think that God's message might come out of someone random, someone surprising, people like Medad or Eldad, people we never hear about anywhere else in the Bible. Joshua seemed to fear the idea that people other than Moses could come so close to God that God would be able to speak through their voices and lives.

But in the verses before this passage begins, Moses is pleading with God for help with the people. Moses knew he needed help from his people, and so did God. We need each other to speak with God's voice; we will hear the Spirit's movement in surprising places.

- When has the Spirit spoken to you from a surprising place?
- How can you be open to God's message to you coming from surprising places (or people)?

Psalm 104:25-35, 37

Not long ago, when I was able to go on a whale-watching tour, I felt like I was eavesdropping on someone else's prayer. You see the blow, the column of moisture spraying out of the whale's blowhole, and you hear the husky breath of the whale. You see the dark, smooth, serpentine movement of the whale coming out of the surface of the water, the dorsal fin appears, and then it disappears. Slowly, out of the water rises the big, beautiful fluke of the whale, with shining water dripping from it, and then it sinks slowly under the surface. The whale is using this movement with the fluke in the air to propel a powerful dive, deep into the sea, below the boat.

I think of Psalm 104, and what this powerful, playful display of the whale tells about God. What wisdom, what creativity, to design a creature such as the whale. Verse 27 says, "There is that Leviathan, which you have made for the sport of it." The word "Leviathan" probably refers to a mythical sea monster, but the closest I've seen to that is a whale. And now I know what it looks like when God has fun. To see the whale in its glory is coming closer to seeing God in God's glory, just as it is seeing anyone else being who they are made to be. And the relieving thing about the whale (and God) is that it has nothing to do with me. I was able to simply sit without interfering and watch the prayer of the whales, and the reciprocal delight of God.

- When have you eavesdropped on the prayers of creation?

- What does the creation around you have to tell you about the Spirit who creates and renews the face of the earth?

Acts 2:1-21

In Acts, as in the reading from Numbers, there seems to be a direct connection between the Spirit and the act of prophesying. Prophesying comes from being in direct contact with the Spirit of God. It is a speech act that is the result of God's movement, of the pouring out of God's Spirit.

But Acts tells us something crucial here. This Spirit-fueled speech act is one that is meant to bring people in; it gathers and embraces. It empowers people to speak of God's power not only in a way that others can hear but in the languages of their hearts. The Holy Spirit gives the power of prophecy in order to traverse boundaries.

Peter reminds the people of the prophet Joel's words, that God would pour out God's Spirit "upon all flesh." God's dream is for all creatures to be moved by the Spirit such that we would be able to speak—and listen—across language and cultural differences, about the glory of God.

- When have you been caught up by the Holy Spirit?
- How have you seen the Spirit act to dissipate destructive division and gather people together?
- How can the Spirit use you to participate in this ingathering?

John 7:37-39

Jesus says, "Let anyone who is thirsty come to me." It is not belief that begins the inquiry, the searching; it is thirst. Our thirst propels us toward Jesus, but it is our belief that causes us to drink. Note: the belief follows the thirst, the searching, and the encounter.

The believer, compelled by their encounter with Christ, drinks. And then afterward, "out of the believer's heart shall flow rivers of living water." This living water is the Holy Spirit, flowing out from us, for the sake of the thirst of others. We are called to thirst, to search, to encounter, to believe, to drink, and then, to nourish others with God's own Spirit. This is a Trinitarian dance we move in and out of throughout this life.

- Are you in a moment of searching, encountering, believing, drinking, or nourishing others?
